Iron Boiler Tubes,
Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.

SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
W. C. ALLISON'S
PATENT JOINT
Oil Well Tubing.

This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, nicely cut with a revolving screw thread corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole depth of the joint and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.
Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch.

Tubing & Casing.

We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is that the are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.

Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end and proved with the couplers on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch before shipment.

PATENT DRILLING JARS—NOTICE TO MANUFACTURERS.—The Titusville Manufacturing Company, and Gibbs, Russell, & Co, of the city of Titusville, sole owners of the original patent of the Guilliod Steel Jar, together with the various reissues and improvements on the same, desire to give notice to machinists, blacksmiths and others wishing to manufacture the same, that they are now prepared to issue licenses and make such other arrangements as will enable all to participate in the benefits of the invention at moderate cost and on reasonable terms. The efforts of the owners to the patent of establish their rights to the same through the medium of the courts—and in which those rights have been fully sustained—has not been made for the purpose of extorting from operators unusual or exorbitant prices for these articles. On the contrary, every effort will be made to secure the public against a monopoly. For that purpose Mr A C Brainard has been appointed a general traveling agent to grant licenses to all who may desire to manufacture, and also to collect royalties from the same. The most liberal terms will be offered and every effort will be made to protect the rights of all under this patent. And to this end notice is hereby given to every one engaged in the manufacture of the jars without a license, to discontinue the same at once on penalty of being prosecuted for the infringement of said patent.
Any information in regard to terms will be fully given on application to the traveling agent A C Brainard or to The Titusville Manufacturing Company, and Gibbs, Russell & Co, Titusville, Pa

REGISTER AND RECORDER
CONNEAUTTEE PA March 25, 18
Editors Morning Herald—You will please announce that JAMES W SHAW will be a candidate for renomination for the office of Register and Recorder at the coming Republican primary election.
ERIE SHAW was a private in the army of the Union and fought in our own State at the battle of Gettysburg. He is competent, prompt and obliging as his seven entire satisfaction to the business public as a officer. Heretofore having been tied in the service of our country and being well qualified for the position and knowing the conditions of the business public and feeling strongly in favor of his nomination will be urged at the primary election.
VENANGO COUNTY

REGISTER AND RECORDER
OIL CITY March 21, 1872
Editors Herald—Please announce the name of Captain JOHN P BARRETT as candidate for Register and Recorder subject to the usages of the Republican party at the primary election.
CAPTAIN BARRETT served as private in the Fourth Pennsylvania Cavalry in 1861 and was in all the battles in which the army of the Potomac was engaged for one year, when he was wounded and was discharged for disability. He is a good man, a good citizen and has shown himself in every respect qualified for the office.
MANY REPUBLICANS

The Cincinnati Convention

DANGER THAT IT WILL BE ANTI-WILLIAM OUT MITIGATION—HOW IT MIGHT BREAK DOWN FOR GOOD

(From the Christian Union)
The Cincinnati Convention continues to "loom" without taking shape and grows, if possible, more nebulous from day to day. Some tell us it will be a meeting of enormous importance others that it will be an insignificant gathering of disaffected politicians but no one can say who will attend it, how much political power it will represent or what it will undertake to do. So far, the movement kept in the main within the line of legitimate action inside of the Republican party. The doctrines of amnesty, civil service, and revenue reform, which one proposed as its basis, are not only sound they are important, and they need emphasizing just at this time. Even the declared opposition to Gen Grant is not condemnation so long as that question is not decided, as is perfectly fair at tends involving no treason to the party. A good Republican may go to Cincinnati to further any of those objects and still not sever his connection with his old political associates. We do not wish to see the Cincinnati movement prematurely branded as hostile nor do we wish to have it voluntarily assume an independent position, nominate separate candidates, and make war upon the Philadelphia Convention and its nominees. It seems to us that since Independent Republicans have as yet no need to burn their ships, and cut off retreat.
We have sufficiently declared our preference for Gen Grant, and our desire to have him renominated as, on the whole, the best candidate the Republican party can select but we do not make agreement with such views the test of loyalty to that party, or of patriotic devotion to the country. We hope that wise men will go to Cincinnati, that they will wisely deliberate and calmly resolve. If they seriously nominate an independent ticket then indeed they will have severed themselves from the party whose success we believe to be the nation's best hope. But until they do so they ought to be regarded as members of that party, intending, in a perfectly legitimate way, to influence its action.
The political newspapers have developed an infinite amount of bitterness in the discussion of the shadowy future. Those who desire the renomination of the President are stigmatized by disgruntled Republican papers as benchmen, organ grinders and slaves and in reply they charge certain General Grant's opponents as traitors. If the Cincinnati Convention does any good it will be in spite of much that has been said and done by its friends. If Gen Grant is not renominated and defeated it will not be because some of his Republican advocates sneer at civil service reform or assail the sincerity and ability of his Republican opponents, but because the people have faith in him that such folly can't take.
Meanwhile the attitude of the Democratic party is such as to warn Republicans to the danger of these insane attempts. The party stands ready to throw its weight with any platform and any candidates that promise success. Its leaders are trying to shut the mouths of unruly members who prefer to stand by their principles which have become the well known signals of defeat. This demoralized and discordant body is not to be trusted with the control of national affairs and no promises that it may make on the eve of an election can outweigh the distrust which its history inspires.
Now is such a party a dangerous opponent, unless it can do so by the folly of Republicans. If the Cincinnati Convention demands a reformation of the Republican party, it will be heard with respect. To assume that reforms cannot be achieved with the party in power is to defy the Democratic party in power. We have shown in a recent article how that reform might come and yet that we should regard it as a evil almost without mitigation.
We can understand how an honest Republican might differ with us but we do not think that all the objections urged with any degree of truth against Gen Grant can amount to justification of a split on account of his nomination—particularly before his nomination. And it is a thing for the Cincinnati Convention and would be to declare in unmistakable tones its support of amnesty and the President's plan of civil service reform, against the politicians in Congress who have every reason to dislike it. Such a course, we venture to say, would be the last blow Cincinnati might inflict upon the adherents of the "spoils" abomination could afford to disregard.

The Earthquake

INTERESTING DETAILS OF THE DISTURBANCE ON THURSDAY LAST—IT'S GREAT EXTENT AND REMARKABLE PHENOMENA—REPORTS FROM VARIOUS SECTIONS OF CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA

California and Nevada papers of March 27th contain the earlier accounts of the effects of the destructive earthquake shock which was experienced in that section of the country at 2½ o'clock on the morning of the 26th. The San Francisco Bulletin says the shock was comparatively light in that city but one of the most severe on record in other places, as well as one of the most widely diffused.
The Bulletin continues:
Our dispatches by telegraph show that it extended at least from Red Bluff, in the northern, to Visalia, in the southern part of the State, and it is probable that it really extended from Siskiyou to Los Angeles, including nearly the entire length of the State. It seems to have increased in energy as it moved southward, and to have reached up the Sierra to an elevation of 3,000 to 4,000 feet. Thus the whole Sacramento, San Joaquin and Tulare Valleys were disturbed and the eastern slope of the Sierra to the height named, making an area of disturbance equal to at least 500 miles long by 60 to 100 miles wide. The shock was severest in the valleys where the deep alluvium would propagate the waves of disturbance more vigorously than they would be propagated on the isolated and rocky peninsula upon which San Francisco is built. To this circumstance the city owes its comparative exemption from the shock, and the general solicitude felt for the metropolis will be relieved on learning this fact. The time of the shock followed the trend of the Sierra apparently proceeding southeasterly by northwesterly. So far as our reports are received they tend to fix the centre of the greatest energy near Visalia, in the Tulare Valley, which is the bed of a former lake. The alluvium was profoundly and frequently agitated, and the shocks were long continued and frequent in the adjacent hills trees and rocks were dislodged. Altogether, the phenomena recorded are very remarkable."

AT SACRAMENTO
The account from Sacramento reads as follows: A severe and prolonged shock of earthquake was experienced in this city at about 2½ o'clock this morning. Almost the entire population was aroused from sleep, and a great deal of alarm was felt, which, with many, did not subdue until morning. Although the movement was felt throughout the great shock in 1864 in S Francisco its length of duration was far more much greater. Some of those who were awake at the commencement of the tremor, say that the first vibration seemed to be from east to west but changed from north to south. Others say the first two or three vibrations were vertical, as though proceeding from the depths of the earth. The variety of movement was certainly unusual. At one moment a gentle floating motion was perceptible, not unlike that of a vessel moored at anchor moved by a light wind, at another the oscillation seemed to be several violent vibrations from north to south, and vice versa. The vibration was plainly felt while clocks were stopped, doorbells rung, plastering cracked, crockery, furniture and windows shaken and rattled. But little serious damage was done. The walls of a few buildings are found to have been slightly cracked this morning. The time of duration is variously stated at from one and a half to three minutes. All residents of San Francisco here agree that the vibration was much longer than that of 1868. The printers in the third story of the Union office state the time to have been three minutes. S L Jones stood on the sidewalk in front of the Golden Eagle Hotel, conversing with a friend, when he exclaimed, "Where is that carriage?" On realizing that the noise and motion were produced by an earthquake instead of a carriage Lect took out his watch and noted the time. He says the vibration continued a full minute and a half. Turnverein Hall was crowded with dancers, and when the shock approached its climax a rush was commenced for the door, which was restrained by those who exercised their presence of mind. Many others at the ball and elsewhere, experienced sensickness from the rocking motion to which they were subjected. At the Golden Eagle, the Orleans, the Capital, and other hotels and boarding houses the lodgers rushed pell mell from their bedrooms to the highway, and some of them without especial regard to costume. In a few minutes after the shock there were hundreds of people on the street, many of them walking in the middle of the street to avoid danger. Both telegraph offices were besieged by crowds of people anxious especially to hear from San Francisco. The offices were lighted up, and the operators were on hand, but nothing could be heard.

IN OTHER QUARTERS
Telegrams from various sections of the State will be found below.
VISALIA, March 26—At 2 25 this morning the citizens of this town were awakened from their slumbers by a loud rumbling noise, followed by a violent pitching of the earth from southeast to north, which continued from two to three minutes. Houses were vacated in an instant, people ran out into the streets, goods were hurled off the shelves in the stores, and bottles and crockery broken. Several brick buildings were more or less strained and walls cracked. The front wall of a large brick saloon was moved out an inch. The walls of the Overland stable, burned last week, were partially thrown down. Fissures opened in clay land an inch or more wide. Parties who were in the foothills twenty five miles east of the town, report the crash of rocks as though the chain of mountains was rent in two, and rocks and trees rolled down an immense chasm. Upward of thirty shocks have been counted up to eleven o'clock. Much anxiety is expressed for the safety of San Francisco. The general opinion is that the city has fared badly.
SONORA March 26—The most severe earthquake ever felt here occurred at 2 20 a m, and continued at intervals until 6½ o'clock. The first shock lasted one and one half minutes, nearly every one in town being startled from their slumber and rushing into the streets in their night clothes. The vibrations appeared to be from northwest to southwest. Much anxiety is felt to know the effects of the shock in San Francisco.
TUTTLE CREEK March 26—A very severe shock of earthquake was felt here this morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock, waking nearly all the inhabitants and causing the occupants of the Sutter Hotel to abandon the house in their night robes. The shock ranged from west to east.
IOWA HILL March 26—We had a very heavy earthquake here at 2 20 a m, and at 2 ½ light one at 2 35, light one at 2 40, large one at 3 50, very heavy and one at 6 30 very heavy.
LOS ANGELES, March 26—At 2 30 this morning two severe shocks of earthquake were felt. The shocks were over a minute in duration. The second shock was the heaviest and longest. It seemed like a wave rolling from north to south. The earthquake aroused nearly everybody from sleep, and caused a general feeling of alarm though no damage was done of the slightest nature. The shocks were more severe than any since 1868 and as long or longer than those of 1857. Two lighter and scarcely perceptible shocks occurred one at 4 ½ and the other at 7 o'clock. No a breath of air was stirring at the time. The appearance of the moon was dark murky and blood red. At Wilmington and San Pedro, a correspondent writes that the earthquake was felt about three o'clock this morning lasting one or two minutes. No unusual disturbance at sea were observed.

The Crisis—Meeting at Oil City.

The news of John J Fisher's sale of oil to the Standard Oil Company, created intense excitement throughout the region, and caused a large assembly of producers at Oil City on Saturday morning, for the purpose of strengthening the stand the Executive Committee had taken in refusing to allow any more oil to go forward. An impromptu meeting was held at the Oil Exchange Room about ten o'clock, F W Mitchell in the chair and Wm L Lay Secretary.

The Chairman said that the object of the meeting was to decide upon a most vital and important question, namely, whether Mr Fisher be allowed to sell oil to the Standard Oil Company of Cleveland. The question had been brought before the Executive Committee, but no decision has yet been arrived at. Several days ago Mr Fisher broached the subject to Mr Harrington and the speaker, stating that his tanks were full and he had been obliged to store his oil in tank cars, that he had no more money, and would be compelled to sell to the Standard Oil Company, who were desirous of purchasing his oil. The committee sympathized with his position, but could not consent to the sale of the oil. Fisher had claimed since last Wednesday that the charter of the South Improvement Company being abrogated, and the railroads having given an equitable rate of freight with no drawbacks in favor of any one, that our object had been accomplished, and the time had now arrived to sell to an open market.

Mr Zane moved that Mr Fisher, who was present, be requested to state to the meeting to whom he had sold the oil when he had sold it, what amount he had sold to Cleveland, and at what price.

Mr Fisher rose and said "I sold 20,000 or 17,000 barrels, I don't know which, at $5 50, to the Standard Oil Co. The reason I don't know the exact amount is owing to a mistake in the cypher."

In reply to further questions put by Mr Zane Mr Fisher stated that the Titusville Oil Exchange had passed a resolution to the effect that he had been false to his pledges, and he intended to bring them to account for it. He had never signed any pledges nor make any promises. He sold this oil because he thought the time had arrived to sell to an open market, and holding back any longer was impossible. He had taken 80,000 barrels from the small producers and tanked it, and this is more than all the rest put together have done. He had notified the committees before selling the oil, and told them he must either sell or have the money to enable him to hold it. They failed to raise the money and he was obliged to sell.

Mr Zane said that considerable dispatch had been used in selling this lot of oil.

Mr Fisher replied that he could sell 50,000 barrels in one minute, and load 100 cars a day that such transactions took no time at all. He was the only person who had held the market here, and he had given assurances in New York, that as soon as the combination was broken up he would sell to an open market. In order to prove the correctness of his position he read the following telegram

OIL CITY April 5 1872

To J D Rockefeller Cleveland

If you cannot satisfy us conclusively that you have no connection with the South Improvement Company, or any similar combination the people here will not allow oil bought of us to be shipped. The people here demand final information of the contract of the South Improvement Company contract, and also the Standard Oil Company can act with the railroad companies, and that the Standard Oil Co's contract is completely severed.

J J FISHER

CLEVELAND, April 5, 1872

J J Fisher, Oil City

The Standard Oil Company have no connection whatever with the South Improvement Company, or any similar company. The South Improvement Company's contracts have all been cancelled and the company dissolved. The Standard Oil Company have no contracts whatever with the railroads. Why did you sell oil to us the second time if you were so situated.

J D ROCKEFELLER

Mr Zane said that Mr Fisher has been buying oil from parties who were abundantly able to hold it and not relieving the small producers, that one third of the production was to be held back and $200,000 had been raised for that purpose, that Mr Fisher had acted in good faith, and not been purchasing oil above the market price at the same moment he was so loudly calling for money and help he could have got all the money he required to maintain his position.

Mr Byrom thought that the time had now arrived, when a united effort should be made to get back to our original status, as it fell out to our old customers in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, and we offered the following resolution

Resolved, That a committee of three producers and one refiner be appointed to confer with the individual refiners of Cleveland and Pittsburgh, with the view of ascertaining their position as regards the South Improvement Company or any other combination. That said committee be authorized to inform them that unless they will sign a pledge or promise that they will enter into no combination or terms that will be prejudicial to the interests of this community the same facilities will be extended to them for the purchase of oil that are enjoyed by other refiners, and that said committee report the result of the investigation, no oil shall be sold or shipped to any party interested in the late South Improvement Company.

This resolution was received with general disapprobation.

Capt Hasson said that we had a little information on from the old guardian angels of ours and read the following telegram

OIL CITY April 5th

Henry Rimsdall or General McClintock Oil City, New York—The people here are anxious to know if contracts of S I C and Standard Oil Company with the trunk lines have been cancelled. Please answer.

WM HASSON President P E U

NEW YORK April 5th

WM HASSON—The contract with South Improvement Company, I understand is virtually dead, no oil is shipped by us, nor could it the unrestricted use of all shippers at uniform rates.

HOMER RAMSDALL

There is nothing to the point in all the replies we have received upon the subject. When we are perfectly satisfied that the conspiracy is dead then it will be published to every one throughout the Executive Committee. There are two reasons assigned by Mr Fisher for selling this oil, namely, no tankage and no money. He had gained the sympathy of the people by his professions of purchasing his oil from poor producers but now we discover that instead of relieving the most needy of the producers he has been purchasing largely from those who were able to hold their own. Mr Hasson here stated for the benefit of parties with small wells that Mr Thumm will take all their oil and pay the market price for it. We don't think we have been do it fairly with by Mr Fisher he has deceived us in more than one way and if the people of Oil City had known that forty-nine cars were going to leave yesterday for Cleveland, they would not have been permitted to go.

Another telegram was read by Mr Fisher, from Rockefeller, but was received with loud disapprobation.

Mr Rich said that if Mr Byrom's resolution goes forth to the world, it will give a false impression, and is as much as to say that we are unable to hold our oil. We are abundantly able to hold all our oil. We have no right to appoint a committee for any such purpose. We have an Executive Committee who attend to these matters, and if the enemy want to come to us with any proposition let them come, but we should not lower our dignity by going to them. It is their place to submit, and not ours.

A motion was made to lay the resolution on the table.

Mr Irey hoped that the resolution would be acted upon, and an expression of opinion taken, and that it would be voted down and not laid on the table.

Mr Mitchell stated that Mr Fisher had agreed not to ship any more oil till after the mass meeting on Tuesday.

Mr Hasson said that the executive committee would be ready to give more definite information by next Tuesday. We are prepared to believe that these men will say anything for the purpose of getting oil, and we will demand official information. We are ourselves to blame for the present low price of oil, as we do not diminishing our production. Our refiners have been trying to get as much as they can for refined, but they cannot raise the price with 1,000,000 barrels at their back, and 30,000 barrels per day over production. He did not believe that the refiners were to blame in the matter at all.

Mr Zane stated that Parker's was overstocked, and they refused to sell to the South Improvement Company.

Mr Fisher said that he knew of oil that had been shipped to members of the South Improvement Company in Pittsburg.

This was explained by some one as the filling of prior contracts.

The vote was then taken on Mr Byrom's resolution, and it was voted down with emphasis.

Mr Lay offered the following

Resolved, That all producers, dealers and brokers be prohibited from selling oil to any one not vouched for by the Committee of the Producers' Union until the Chairman of the Executive Committee gives public notice that all can sell to any buyer.

Resolved, That J J Fisher is occupying a wrong position in buying oil and selling it to the Standard Oil Company.

Carried.

Mr Byers moved that the Executive Committee be requested to allow no oil to leave the Oil Stations to any of the South Improvement Company excepting on contracts prior to March 1st. He said the time had come for decisive action and extreme measures, and if need be he would stake his life and property on the issue. Self preservation was the first law of nature, and the interests of a whole community were paramount to those of any single individual. We must stand or fall together.

Mr Hasson said this would impose a very serious responsibility on the Executive Committee, and he hoped that if the question was put and prevailed, those in favor of it and who were willing to aid in carrying out such a policy would make it manifest by a rising vote.

This gave rise to a loud demonstration in favor of the resolution and cells to be heard on the door locked.

Mr Garfield said how the Committee were going to execute such a plan without violence, and so far as he was concerned he would not ask the committee to do any such thing. You may look the door but I will stand on the opposing side of the house, if I have to stand alone. Such action would alienate the sympathy of the whole country from us, and besides we would have the consciousness of being in the wrong, now we know we are in the right, and I am mountain that position. We can never accomplish anything by violence, and for this reason I am opposed to the resolution, and would move that it be referred to the Executive Committee.

Mr Grafton's motion prevailed.

Mr Hasson said he would like Mr Fisher to define his position more clearly in presence of the meeting, and asked him to state whether, in the judgment of the Union the proper time had not yet arrived, he would go on and ship oil after Tuesday.

Mr Fisher said that if the producers would not press him to take the oil he would not sell without the consent of the people.

The chairman stated that the mass meeting was called for Tuesday next.

After some further discussion of rather a personal character the meeting adjourned.

THE Titusville and Petroleum Center R R Co have obtained an injunction against the Warren and Venango R R from the Supreme Court in Philadelphia.

The Momentous Question.

Mr John J Fisher's sale of a large amount of oil to the Standard Oil Co of Cleveland, last Friday, has opened a question upon which the most vital interests of the region depend. Fisher claims that while on the Railroad Committee in New York he pledged himself to members of the S I Co that as soon as the combination was broken up he would sell as usual to an open market. This arrangement was carefully concealed from the public, for reasons best known to Fisher himself, and we had not the slightest intimation of it until after the sale had been effected. In fact Fisher assumed the responsibility of compromising with the conspirators upon a basis which, if it should ever gain the sanction of the Executive Committee, must inevitably enable the conspirators to carry out their original design to the letter. It it were possible to entirely break up the combination, and place each individual interest upon the same status as existed before the formation of the rings, with a guarantee against future combinations, we might then with comparative safety, resume our sales to an open market. But this was not Fisher's idea when he pledged himself to the members of the ring. He had only reference to the breaking of the outer shell, as his sale to the Standard Oil Company has fully proved. The destruction of the combination involves the dissolution of the inner rings, as well as of the outer shell, and the South Improvement Company, under cover of which the real and most dangerous portion of the combination lay concealed. These inner rings are composed of two separate elements, on the one side railroad presidents and directors, of almost unlimited wealth and power, and on the other side capitalists representing three fourths of the entire refining capacity of the country. These men have at stake all the way from ten to sixty millions of dollars in rolling stock, refineries, dock age, store houses, &c. They are subdivided into two branches, the northern branch is called the Standard Oil Company, of Cleveland, and the southern or Pittsburgh branch, whose distinctive appellation has not yet been published. The entire combination has been so ignominiously devised, bound together with such skill and secrecy, and is composed of such powerful elements, that it may be said to be indestructible by any legislation which can be brought to bear upon it. The different members of the combination, as a matter of policy, may make an appearance of dissolution to day, and their machinery be in full operation again to-morrow. All they ask is oil, and they will say and do almost anything for the purpose of getting it. Our only safety against falling into their power, is to withhold every barrel of our product from them, at every cost of risk to this and do our own refining and we are safe, but if on the other hand, we endorse the action of Fisher, we are lost beyond the possibility of redemption.

Fisher's Collapse.

We do not intend at this time to make any extended comment on John J Fisher's defection to use no harsher term. We shall await the action of the meeting to morrow, merely remarking that if it fails to meet the exigencies of the occasion, there is no further hope of successfully resisting the South Improvement Company. Upon John J Fisher rests the responsibility. The man who was most trusted was the first to betray the interests of the region, and the infamy as well as the profits of the mercenary achievement, will be his alone.

Petroleum in California.

From the New York Bulletin.

The discovery of petroleum in California adds another to the already widely varied products of that State. It has been known for a long time that rich deposits of petroleum existed near the coast but as yet the production of this oil has been unimportant. The San Francisco Commercial Herald says the Learning Petroleum Company recently organized to that city, has fairly commenced operations, with results which augur well for its success. The crude oil is found in the mountains of the San Fernando District, thirty five miles northwest from Los Angeles, from which point there is railroad communication of twenty-one miles with the port of San Pedro. The cost of importation from the mines is 2½ cents the gallon, and the cost for refining 2 cent the gallon for small quantities, and 1½ cent for large lots. Up to the present time several shipments of crude oil have been received at San Francisco, aggregating some hundreds of barrels, which have found immediate purchase at remunerate rates. The Company are prepared to take and use not less than 1,000 barrels per day, and the district owned by the company is sufficiently extensive and productive to warrant the delivery of that or even greater amount so soon as the requisite can be obtained to furnish suitable works. The shipments have, so far, been the product of surface springs from which the oil was dipped by buckets, but when a system of shafts and operations shall have been introduced the yield will be vastly augmented. It is the opinion of capable gentlemen who have carefully examined the mines, that they are of sufficient capacity to furnish nearly all the oil required for consumption on this coast. The attention of capitalists and scientific men once fairly directed to the development of this important adjunct to the natural resources of this State, may and probably will result in making California the market of supply for China, Japan, Australia, Eastern Russia and the Pacific Islands, as well as the western coasts of Mexico, Central and South America.

Depression of Coal Oil Trade in Scotland

(Special Correspondence)

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 14, 1872

The coal oil trade in Scotland is in a state of depression such as it never suffered before. Things are sadly changed from what they were before the oil fever here, when the price received for a very dark stinking stuff was 4s or about dark stinking stuff was 4s or about a dollar a gallon, and the best oil yielding coal could be had at quite a nominal price. Fortunes could be made then, and in the cases of those who were fortunate enough to be first on the field, such as Mr Young and Mr Meldrum, were made. The reaction which took place after the fever of 1865 66 corrected this of course and brought the profits to be within something like a normal rule. But even at 2s or 1s 9d a gallon large profits could be made and many more went sanguinely into the trade. In the most of cases, but several years after, handsome or tolerable competencies were derived from the investment of their capital. But when the prices fell below nineteen pence, or rather below sixteen or seventeen pence, which they have not reached for the past few years, nothing beyond a fair return for their money has been received, and certainly nothing which could be called handsome profit. Now with prices at fourteen pence a gallon, and in some cases lower than that—lower even than the cost of production—there is no danger of our nominal men here being affected with "oil on the brain." The tendency is rather for them, and especially for them in the trade to rush in the opposite direction.

The depression is not in the market alone, there is a general hopelessness or commercial despondency in manufacturers and all engaged in the trade. Our manufacturers are a spirited class of men, and during the past eighteen months although the trade suffered so much by two of the largest markets on the continent being practically closed to them, owing to the continental war. They fought manfully against it, and kept their works in full operation. One or two companies were even added to their number. And since the cessation of the war, we need hardly add, the French ports have been almost as effectually closed by the high import duty, which, adding about 100 per cent to the value, is a source of dissatisfaction and is considered an infringement of the treaty between the two countries. With these disadvantages, and others to be mentioned, it is not surprising that it has been a question with them whether they should continue to go on or not. With prices below the cost of production, as is the case with several of them, it certainly will not be surprising to see a number of them close before this year is out. Of course in such a case with manufacturers the reply comes up "plant cannot stand idle," and so some have resolved to go on at a loss, and many of them we know have lost a deal. It is strange, too, that they suffer in their pockets without causing others to share the burden with them as many other excellent and honest men do. But our manufacturers have this other qualification—they are honorable and prefer to lose themselves if they can afford it, rather than become insolvent. It is true that a number of crude oil works have stopped work, as the price which the oil brought did not not at all remunerate them. All except the very finest makes have been selling at 4½d and as low as 4¼d per gal on 860@805 specific gravity. Former contracts have been made at 4¾d. Crude oil does not pay the manufacturers under 5d a gallon. What is keeping them going is the high price of sulphate of ammonia, which, owing to the large demand on the Continent for beet-root cultivation, has gradually risen from £16 10 in January, 1871 to £21 10 and £25. The Broxburn crudes are rich in sulphate of ammonia, about six per cent twaddle being the average quantity obtained.

To the larger works, which both make their own crude and refine it, this rise in the price of sulphate of ammonia has been the only favorable or redeeming circumstance of the trade during the year. Blue oil has also risen in price. This is owing to the large shipments of it which have been to the continent. Some workers have thought it more profitable to sell their blue oil than to refine it into lubricating oil. But none of the larger works have done so, nor those which which have a regular reliable make of lubricating oil, which, paradoxical as it may seem, few of them may be said to have. This is no doubt owing to their not turning their attention to it sufficiently. Although in such a state of things as the present it would well repay them to do this. That oil is always a staple article, and that it is not subject to the fluctuations or depression which characterize the burning oil market. It will only be by giving this article or our attention that they will be able to make amendment in future. This is an opinion which I venture to offer to their kind consideration, and if they run short of the blue oil for that purpose they could not do better than import the heavy Canadian oil, as its high gravity and other qualities enable it to be used for the making of lubricating—and an excellent lubricant it makes, judging from an analysis which I have but recently seen made. The Canadian heavy oils are well suited to make a lubricant as oleagirous and mobile, and as high in gravity as the Trinidad oil. The oil is well-known in much request in this market, made by Messrs Watson & Co, Battgate, under Messrs Merritts (of Boston,) patent brings as much as £30 a ton. Then I am astonished that other manufacturers here do not "go in" for it, as it seems to have taken a place in the market and will be sure to keep it. The price is remunerative.

After the efforts of the Continental war, and the French tariff imposing a prohibitory duty the other circumstances unfavorable to the manufacture of burning oils are the high price of chemicals and other necessaries of oil refiners, as well as men's labor. Caustic soda has risen from twelve to £19 10s ten per ton, and is still rising. Sulphuric acid too as nearly the whole list of articles in the chemical trade have risen. Barrels are also dear, and glue, an article much required by refiners, has nearly doubled its price. Men's wages have risen from ten to fifteen per cent. This is a very troublesome article here just now. There is no treating with it almost. And notwithstanding these disadvantages to contend with in a period which is quite unparalleled in the history of the trade, the manufacturer must have the oil up to the highest mark of perfection, and this no doubt has been the case. The coal oil sent into the markets during the period in question has undoubtedly been more than an improvement on all that was sent in before. It even stood a favorable comparison with the best American oil. This is admitted in nearly all the reports for 1871 which were published at the beginning of this year. Messrs Mordaunt Bros wrote "Rapid strides continue to be made in the process of refining their oils. Some makes are hardly distinguishable from the best American oil." Messrs. Arthur, Benn & Co, say "the qualities in all respects have again immensely improved, and the day is probably not far distant when the finest brands will continually realize the fullest petroleum values. Even now it is a generally recognized fact that when finest oil is wanted coal oil is chosen on account of its superior color and great illuminating power. The white oil produced in the present day, when placed beside even the best samples a number of years ago, when prices were so encouraging, there is no comparison. A stranger would say that they could not both have been obtained from the same source. The older samples are so dark and stinking—they have such a villainous smell as to render them unfit for any man's house—while the samples of to-day in color outshine water itself, and their sweet smelling odor is so inviting that we could sniff at it forever. We speak, of course, as connoisseurs in hydro carbons, the delight of some of whom can neither be imagined nor described.

In connexion with this, I may be allowed to give an instance of my experience on the subject. It will be an agreeable digression from the subject of this article, and at the same time a fact—a notable idiosyncrasy—to the infinite chagrin of those in that grandest science, human nature. I trust that our savants will acknowledge it, and adequately express their indebtedness. It is the effect which the odor of samples of hydro-carbon oil had on a man in the trade, who deserves to be classed among the connoisseurs, when meeting with a sample of some oils, he falls to sniffing up its odor, as if he could not get enough of it, and every sniff was to be his last. He describes it in grandiloquent terms, as if it were the concentration of all sweet smelling odors under heaven. He has a contempt for any one who mentions any one of the saints, even "Araby the Blest," as equal to it, far less to surpass it. And if any man would venture to describe it by such a word as pungent or dared to say that it stank in any way save when poured on one's Sunday coat, we believe we would knock him down for having committed a blasphemy. One peculiarity in his case and which we would particularly direct the attention of our Savants to, is the fact that when in the act of sniffing one dare not speak to him. As we have said so soon as the odor takes effect he begins to speak in soliloquy grandiloquently, and if you were to speak to him at the moment, so lost is he in reverie and in contemplation of the delights in the paradise of hydro carbons, the spell is broken and the bottle falls from his nose. We are sorry that we cannot enter into anything like a full description of this remarkable phenomenon, falling under the head of the idiosyncrasies. But although philosophy is not in our line we would be very glad should the savants desire it to furnish or cause them to be furnished with particulars of this case, the sort of man he is, his height, weight and girth, his habits and previous history, how he sleeps, eats and drinks, what he eats and drinks, the color of his hair, his eyes, &c, &c, &c. There is an important circumstance, however, which we will not omit to mention here, and that is that he can drink hydrocarbon oils. Of course this is when he meets with one of his more favorite kinds, and only in limited quantity. However, this is not surprising, the Savants will be able to account for it seeing our subject gets into a state of reverie and as quite analagous cases come with people under the control of a mesmerist, who when he gives them say whisky as milk and codliver oil as rosewater, they imagine the one to be milk and the other rosewater. It is admitted, however, that the odor of the best treated oils is very inviting, and we are surprised that so many connoisseurs in hydro carbons have resisted the temptation so well to put the bottle to their mouth immediately after they have had it at their nostrils. It can only be out of their great respect for the article, as the smell is delightful.

But to come back to the point, from which we beg pardon for transferring. It would seem that these delightful titillations of the olfactory nerves are to be the only substantial delights and satisfactions which the manufacturer of coal oil is to receive in the future as a return for his great trouble and outlay. For the past nine months the price of oil has been gradually, slowly, but surely declining. They have been low and unremunerative since shortly after the war began, but owing to other causes, some of which we have explained, since July last year, they have gradually fallen still lower and consequently are still more unremunerative, in short they are ruinous. To battle against them is a losing game. I had purposed to refer to the several fluctuations, injuries and their causes during the past year more particularly. But for fear that I have taken up too much space already, you will pardon me for being factious for a little space. To my mind it is wise to wear a pleasant face and keep one's spirits up, no matter what the state of your business is, at all events nothing is to be gained by weeping, we must only hope for the best and do what we can to improve matters.

Venango County Politics—Call to Joseph B Reynolds, Esq.

Joseph B Reynolds, Esq.

DEAR SIR—The undersigned citizens of Venango County most respectfully request the privilege of presenting your name to the people at the next ensuing Fall election for the position of member of the 80 sa of Representatives, for the District comprised by the county of Venango.

We deem this the most fitting opportunity to present for the suffrages of the people, one whose ability, acquirements and position in the community command universal respect. That you would make such a standard bearer, we believe and by our long residence in the Best of Counties and acquaintance, you have always given to the diverse enterprises which have so greatly developed the material interests of the county. Your ripe business qualifications and knowledge of the wants of the community, all combine in making the association.

You early affirmative response will be gratefully received by your devoted friends and fellow citizens.

Reply from Mr. Reynolds

OIL CITY, PA., April 5, 1872

To Dr C A Cooper and others

GENTLEMEN—I received your very highly flattered by the call presented to me that my name appear as a candidate for the Legislature. I would be unable to give the time necessary to the duties of the office, and would be unwilling to accept the nomination if it should be tendered. But I feel that I can do more good in private life to the business and not politics. But should I be so actuated I promise to give my best and talent to the best of my ability, for the interest in the district and Oil Creek and bring all my interests, both public and private to

Yours very truly

Meeting of Executive Committee P. P. Union.

There will be a meeting of the Executive Committee, P P Union in Lyons Opera House, Oil City, Pa, on Tuesday April 9th, 1872 at 10 o'clock a m, to which the local committeemen of the several districts are urgently requested to be present, together with producers generally for the purpose of discussing and settlement of very grave questions

WM HASSON, President,
W S MCMILLAN Secy

For or Against.

The men who have come out squarely and affirmatively for the Buffalo road, and have subscribed their money to build it, if the proposition is carried by ballot in Buffalo next week, to bond that city for a million of dollars, may well congratulate themselves on the result. An enterprise in that event, may be set down as morally certain to be accomplished. We shall almost feel like holding a jubilee over so auspicious an achievement. Let the balls be rung, and the bonfires be lighted, for it will be the forerunner of our emancipation and liberty in commercial operation. We cannot contemplate defeat on such an issue with any patience or complacency.

Our only consolation in defeat will be that we have done what we could, and that we have performed our whole duty. But upon those who have opposed it the only remedy, this only safe and sure one, this only release from bondage to a combination of railroad corporations upon those who have held it off, who have tried the cold shoulder, upon those who have either openly or secretly worked against this bill, upon those who have made friends and enemies, and who have been as and after and such a state of things has been in fact of this city as though their property and business was in Oil City or anywhere but Titusville, there may come a day of reckoning that they little dream of.

Let the Buffalo road fail, and then we may sue for terms with Vanderbilt or McCallum and Scott, sue and be spurned and mocked at. The Warren & Venango road was brought to a halt and a compromise offered upon before. Why not again. Who will repose trust a second time, where he has once been betrayed. How long will the present or even the Transportation Committee last if the Buffalo road is killed. How many months before the South Improvement Company acting under a new charter, or in some treaty with a friendly new invader or partner, or our make, or in fact compelled to yield or crush, return to legislation and aid and assistance. Where put the Watson, Lockhart & Co's and in to day. Bill I, but not defeated they must win or go to the wall.

They must retrieve their losses. They must protect the great industry properties they have in their hand, or see them come to ruin. This bill is indeed the only thing that can keep wolves away from our throats, or in all it keeps the trunk lines on their good behavior.

Then, friends, walk up and subscribe for the common good. Every dollar may be worth a million in Buffalo.

We are jealous of the good name of our city. We do not like to hear the name of any city quoted against us in terms of reproach, which means coal oil, coal for manufacturers, cheaper lumber for building, cheaper merchandise and dry goods, which puts an end to excessive freights, which saves us from drawback, and adds immense amount to a quarter of a million annually and puts the market value of our oil product into the pockets of our citizens, not of strangers, which will double the wealth and population of this city and this region in five years, and add millions to the wealth of Buffalo, and enhance by the sure laws of trade its commerce and manufactures. We urge the delegation to Buffalo. Who will not miss for eight days longer? Post in your subscriptions till the sun shall rise on the great field day when our battle is to be fought in Buffalo. And let us be able to telegraph to Buffalo on the night of the 15th, that we have subscribed $900 000, and paid in ten per cent to the Buffalo road. So can announcement will electrify the population and tell a story of pluck and resolution, of zeal and determination and unanimity which shall grapple him to us, and give us their hearts and voices, by the thousands.

A product that is worth $70 000 000 annually, is worth fighting for not only by Pittsburg and Cleveland, but by Titusville, and Buffalo, greatest city of them all.

A BRUTAL ASSAULT.—A man named Mrs Kost, living in Shan, a little below the Junction House, on Saturday assaulted Lucie Perry, with her face and hands terribly cut and bleeding, for the purpose of procuring a warrant against a parmer of her husband who came home drunk as well as usual. The warrant was issued, but the guilty party up to last night had not been found. One of Mrs K's fingers was nearly severed from her hand. She said that her husband quietly left while she was being assaulted, and did not attempt to interfere.

JOE JEFFERSON will play Rip Van Winkle at the Academy of Music in this city, on the 29th and 30th inst.

Theodore Thomas will give one of his grand instrumental concerts on the 1st May.

To Messrs Vail & Blake is due the credit of originating and circulating the products pledge to stop all work on commencing new wells in the 20th of April to the 20th of June.

We are compelled, for want of space to omit a report of closing exercises of the public schools on Friday including the roll of honor. After a week's vacation, the schools will re-opened for a the summer term.

Don't Give Up the Ship.

Peculiarly appropriate to the present time are the dying words of the heroic Lawrence. Now as then the peril is great and imminent. The foe is strong, and only brave, determined effort can save us from falling into his hands. There is no such thing as a compromise. Peace, to be lasting, must be conquered not asked for. Not even recognition as an honorable belligerent can be granted to this enemy, but he must be met as one meets bandits, robbers who seek to take away property careless if in so doing life is sacrificed. We do not ask any favor. We demand the restoration of our rights, which have been seized upon by this monopoly.

Such as this is the spirit that for two months past has animated the whole region, and bound together as a unit interests generally individuals and a variance. In consistent support of our position we have done our best we could, the evils that follow in the train of stagnant business and depressed markets. Producers, refiners and dealers, as well as merchants and the business community in general, have seen up time and everything to the formation of organizations through which to oppose the common enemy. At home every sacrifice has been made, and away from home every influence has been used to call the attention of the people to our claims, and to the unjust legislation by which those claims have been imperiled. Step by step sternly fighting we have carried our point, refusing the terms of the ring, the oil they sought, influencing the legislature, by the power of popular indignation to give way and repeal the charter under which this combination existed. Our organizations demanded and won from the railroads odious tolls, and at the same time made themselves felt in Congress and roused that body to a thorough investigation of the whole matter.

With every prospect of ultimate success before us, we must not forget that so far we have only repealed the action of the ring. It is not broken up or destroyed. It is only quietly waiting the first manifestation of weakness on our part or dissention in our ranks to assume the offensive. Neither the tolls or the wrong from the roads are limited long enough to crush it, no matter. The repeal of this charter does not effect the purpose to which it is only one out of thirteen and two only of which all the powers of the South Improvement Company can be exercised. It is a matter of doubt whether the Legislature has the power to repeal the charter of a corporation that has commenced its operations. But this we may. It can be no question that the South Improvement Company though cut up root and branch practically alive, and as dangerous as ever. The abrogation of the agreement between the railroads and the members of the ring, is only the giving up of the arranged transportation. The present rates of the roads who owned stock in the combination own it to-day as well as before the contract was announced. Have we therefore, if the same temptation offered to-morrow, the slightest confidence in favor of the refining ring, that S I C as ever, and extend equally the rates of freight which will allow of such discrimination.

We must therefore rely nothing in our efforts. We must issue against the ring on all its agents and see that it will prove stand pat from now to either of the two kinds of oil. Every barrel that goes into their hands will be used to strengthen the market and drive out refiners to the wall by ruinous competition with them.

From classic days of Grecian fable there has come down to us many a grand maxim to fall a parallel in our own time. Let us be the Encounter between Hercules and the Lernean Hydra. Union of our present position. Vain were the attempt, said the Hero God, slay his adversary, who, whose seven immortal heads, grew as fast as he could lop them off. Hercules raised him in his arms, and held him there, till cut off from his source of his strength left him a dead fall a easy prey to his conqueror. So we too, we must break every line of communication through which and aid help is to the enemy. We must attack from every side. It is a question of life to one or the other of us, and for ourselves ask we must not grow weary of the strife. The result is not a matter of doubt. It will be true to our laws. From the Congress and never get one step, or do a work its longer in tanks, but do the duties cheerfully like men who know that they are acting in a great cause. The record of the past strongly fulfilled in the present for we have not applied even more than we had reason to expect. Look this fact home to you. Remember on the one hand a single half in tears, remunerative prices and the prosperity which enterprise and energy may surely claim. On the other remember one to the ring, depressed market and ruin and ruin.

If a picture is taken in a fact we one, but it is not to scale. You are the artists and the world to brush with a bold and firm hand. Turn not aside from the work till the last touch has been given, and the whole is complete. You are the artists into whose hands is given the uprooting of a temple dedicated to the enemy of trade, and across the threshold of which no monopolists can come. Build it firmly then, with strength and true proportions, and it will outlive your time, and be an honor to you so long as your great product holds its place among the blessings of the world.

Once more, do not underrate your enemy. Be on your guard and prepared to meet any demonstration with a stranger. The battle may not be a long one, but it will be sharp and terrible, for this is the last ditch of the foe, and driven from this he has no cover to shield him. Do not be deceived then, but fight on and 'don't give up the ship.'

BILLIARD EXHIBITION.—Our citizens must not forget the grand exhibition in billiards which will be given this evening at Crinthian Hall, by Joseph Dion, the renowned champion of the world, in which he will be assisted by three of the best players of our city. Mr Dion's playing is simply wonderful. In his interview with the best professionals of Montreal, he has displayed the grace and skill that have placed him at the head of his profession. The exhibition will be a fine one and should be given the good attendance.

GRAND BALL.—The Saengerbund Concordia will give their first anniversary ball this evening at Dietz's hall. The affair will be a very select one and everything will be done to render it an enjoyable occasion. The music will be by Professor Coleman's full band. A good time is in store for the members of the society and their guests.

OWING TO the pressure upon columns we are compelled to omit the usual telegraphic report.

Oil Exchange Meeting, April 6

After the meeting had been called to order P B Crosby was appointed Secretary pro tem.

Mr Garfield stated for the information of the meeting, that a large delegation went to the meeting held in Oil City Fisher's case was brought up, and he read a telegram from Rockefeller, the head of the Standard Oil Company and one of the leaders of the South Improvement Company. The message was in reply to one from Fisher asking him if the Standard was interested in the South Improvement Company. The question (it is due to Mr Fisher to say) was a direct one. Rockefeller's reply was as direct that the Standard has nothing to do with the South Improvement Company, whose charter has been annulled and which therefore does not exist. The reply was generally doubted, and it was deemed a mere evasion.

Fisher said he had sold either seventeen thousand or twenty thousand barrels of oil to the Standard. He accounted for the doubt as to the amount by saying that the message of the Standard was in cypher and that it was not plain enough to tell which of these two quantities was intended.

Captain Hasson charged Fisher with double dealing with the executive committee—in that he had come to them representing that he must sell to raise money—that he had been taking oil all along from small producers, who were obliged to sell, and that he had paid out all the money he had on hand, whilst the truth is he has been buying largely both before and after this sale, from all parties, and his object was evidently only to speculate upon the market. Fisher could make no satisfactory denial. He was then asked if he deemed it honorable for him to buy oil from one party representing that he had no money now but would pay for the oil soon, and then buy from another person who could not wait for his money, and pay cash. Fisher acknowledged that this was not honorable.

It also appeared that some producers had been told that Rockefeller was a better friend to them than the Creek refiners, in that he would pay the producers a good price for their oil whilst the Creek refiners are bearing the market. The object of this statement was evidently to induce a feeling in favor of the Standard Oil Company.

Fisher said that forty-nine cars had already been shipped on the sale, but promised not to ship any more till after the meeting of the Executive Committee on Tuesday next. He would not promise, however, not to ship any more then, but evaded the matter by saying it would depend upon what the other parties had bought from put the oil in to him. A committee was appointed to correspond with Rockefeller and others to find out the truth as nearly as possible in regard to the connection of the Standard Oil Company with the South Improvement Company.

Mr Garfield also stated that 6 000 barrels of refined oil had been sold in New York during the day by agents of the ring at a price a fraction of a cent below the regular market rate, thus bearing the market, and taken in connection with twenty cents per barrel more than the market for crude paid to Fisher, it furnishes good reason to suppose that the S I C are active and so bound to put down all competition with them. Fisher manifested no sorrow or regret at having dealt with the parties. When in New York he was asked by members of the S I C whether he would sell them oil after the ring was broken. He told them yes. This was not done in his representative capacity, but only as an individual. He had also made the statement to the Executive Committee of their meeting. He now claims that as the South Improvement Company charter has been repealed he has a right to sell to those parties he chooses. He was very indignant with the Titusville Exchange claiming that it has hindered him and that he will demand a retraction.

It was fully proved that Fisher could have had all the money he needed from the Executive Committee if it had not been shown to them that he wanted it not to relieve his necessity but to speculate upon.

Mr Garfield then called attention to the following telegram which had been posted on the bulletin:

NEW YORK April 5

To Paul W Garfield President Titusville Oil Exchange

Give public notice that we annul all outstanding contracts with Fisher Bros and forbid their acting under

PORTER & ARCHBOLD

The Executive Committee will probably order parties to sell no more oil to Fisher. William Parker, of Parker's Landing, had stated in the meeting that he has 45 000 barrels of oil on hand. This is more than Fisher has. He has been approached by agents of the Standard, offering him a large price, and wanting the oil shipped in the name of Smith. He refused to sell.

M N Allen moved that the Titusville Exchange renew its protest against any oil being sold to the Standard Oil Company, or any one who is or has been in the S I C, and that we use all legitimate means to prevent it. Unanimously carried.

G H Severance moved that the Exchange recommend to the producers to shut down their wells for thirty days.

M N Allen amended by requesting that producers stop drilling wells. After considerable discussion the amendment was amended by substituting sixty in place of thirty days, and in this form the motion was carried.

Mr Minor advised the people of the Oil regions not to give way to the idea that their cause is won, for from his experience in Washington he is firmly satisfied that our interests are still in great peril.

After election of L Beaumont as a member of the Exchange the meeting adjourned to meet again in regular session on Monday evening April 8th.

IMPROVED PATENT CARPET SWEEPER.—Mr. E J Hutchinson is canvassing our city for the above most useful and convenient article, the virtues of which every good housekeeper can appreciate. It not only collects all the sweepings most thoroughly and prevents the dust rising from the floor, choking the sweeper and covering everything in the room with the particles, but it is also a great saving in the wear and tear of carpets. The article meets a ready and extensive sale everywhere. Mr Hutchinson's address for a month will be Titusville, Pa.

Y M C A.—There will be a meeting of the Y M C A this evening, at 8 o'clock, at the rooms of the Association, Second National Bank building, third floor. A full attendance is requested.

J W DOTY, Secretary.

REGULAR meeting of the Titusville Oil Exchange this Monday evening at 7 30 o'clock. PAUL W GARFIELD, Pres't.
JNO D. ARCHBOLD, Sec'y.

Together with an immense collection of higher cost material embracing all the new and novel styles, found in the best assortments of the great Eastern cities. In selecting up my assortment of Dress fabrics suitable for the present and summer season, I have spared no effort or expense, in order that I may be able to place before the people of the Oil Region a stock that would compare with anything that could be found outside of New York, Philadelphia or Boston so far as the styles, quality and prices. You who were unable to be present at my recent grand opening are invited to call and examine my assortment now.

I Am Now Offering
IN MY SILK DEPARTMENT,

An immense assortment of Colored Silks suitable for day or evening wear, embracing all the most popular shades recommended by leading authorities on fashions. My assortment comprises all qualities from $1 25 up to $3 per yard and in addition of primes I have a complete line of colors, thus no one can fail in finding the price that will suit their purpose best.

IN STRIPED AND CHECKED SILKS,

I am exhibiting a beautiful collection, forming a complete assortment in all colors and qualities from $1 to $3 per yard. In this line of goods will be found colored stripes on black grounds, and black and colored stripes on white ground, also silver and black or Jersey Stripes, attended by very desirable styles for consumers from 1 to 16 inches. Also they would be the many other style of fancy silks in all of these styles. I am exhibiting the latest patterns, fresh from the looms of the French and Swiss manufacturers.

IN BLACK SILKS,

I am offering as usual, the best goods for the least money to be found in this section of the country. As a sample some and look at the grade I at $1 per yard, and you will recognize it as being offered by other dealers at $2 25 and $3. I mention this grade as a sample only all my other equal lines being offered at equally low prices. I have also in stock a complete assortment of Black silks, of the celebrated manufacturer of C J Bonnet & Co, Lyons, France, comprising all the qualities from $3 to $9 per yard. Consumers should bear in mind that I never buy a black silk of an inferior make, and every yard sold over my counters is guaranteed to be exactly as represented. Buyers can be satisfied with the various qualities and buy without hesitation and to as good advantage as the most experienced judge.

I AM ALSO OFFERING IN MY SILK DEPARTMENT,

The only complete assortment of Japanese silks ever opened in this market. The styles are so numerous that it would be useless for me to attempt to portray or describe them here but when I say that I have everything that is in the class of goods the people will understand that I mean the most extensive and complete way from 8 up to purchase a Japanese Silk. The new Dolly Varden styles are well represented in my assortment of the above mentioned goods. My prices for Japanese Silks range from 40 cents per yard upwards.

I Am Also Offering In My Silk Department,

A complete assortment of Trimming Silks, Satins and Repp Epinglines, any of which will be cut on the line when so desired.

IN MY
MOURNING GOODS DEPARTMENT

I am offering a first-class assortment, comprising all the styles and qualities considered desirable, and at popular prices.

The special attention of the ladies of the Oil Region is directed to the fact that I have established in connection with my other business,

Dress and Cloak Making Department

Wherein I am now prepared to execute at short notice, orders for Wedding Trousseaux, Outfits, &c, with Every Care and Punctuality at Reasonable Prices.

MADAME PEAKE,

From New York, has charge of this department and from her long experience in catering to the demands of a first-class patronage, is amply qualified to guarantee satisfaction to the most fastidious. I have placed at her disposal every facility to make this branch of my business attractive, and feel confident that a single visit will convince any lady customer as stylish and well fitting garments can be made at this establishment as any in America.

Remember that I am Sole Agent in this county, for the sale of the world renowned Panther Brand of Black Alpaca and pure Mohair Brilliant, are guaranteed to be the best goods of this description ever offered to the public. A article twice as thick, inclined to be the best satisfactory that such are the facts. They cost no more, and yet one yard will outwear two of any other brand. Try them.

WM. H. ANDREWS,
61, 63 & 65 Spring Street,
City of Titusville, Pa.

IN KID GLOVES,

I have now on hand, for the first time in my career, a complete assortment of the celebrated Josephine Beaux Glove, in one and two button lengths and in all colors, also a single button glove for dress or evening wear. I have also a splendid line of Kid Gloves in three, four and six buttons, to which I invite particular attention. I have also in stock an assortment of Misses one and two button Kid Gloves, in all colors of the best quality imported. Particular attention is called to the Gloves that I am now offering at 50 per pair. They are equal in appearance and will wear as well as those at $1 00 or $1 25. Don't fail to make your Hosiery and Glove purchases at my counters, for in so doing you save money.

Citizens of the Oil Region! Remember that my stock is the largest and best assorted in Western Pennsylvania and that my prices are range from 20 to 33 1-3 per cent less than those demanded by other dealers for similar qualities. "Come see, and judge for yourselves."

WM. H. ANDREWS,
61, 63 and 65 Spring Street,
CITY OF TITUSVILLE, PA.

I AM NOW OFFERING IN MY CARPET DEPARTMENT —AT THE—
GREAT NEW YORK STORE,
61, 63 and 65 Spring Street,
City of Titusville, Penn'a.

Unquestionably the largest stock of Carpeting ever opened in this immediate section of the country and has never been excelled for variety or extent on side of New York, Philadelphia or Boston. My assortment embraces

Over one hundred different patterns of Tapestry Brussels
Over fifty different patterns of Body Brussels
Over twenty-five different patterns of Three ply
Over one hundred different patterns of Super and Extra Super

Together with a first class assortment of Moquet, Axminster, Wilton, and Velvet, as well as a great line of cheap Carpeting, consisting of Hemp, Rag, Listing, and Cotton Chain.

I Am Also Offering In My Carpet Department,

A splendid assortment of Floor Oil Cloths, in all widths, from twenty inches to twenty four wide and all qualities, from those at 15c per square yard to the Best English Article at $1.75.
I have also in stock an assortment of the celebrated

LINOLEUM FLOOR OIL CLOTHS.

This cloth is having a large and increasing sale in England and is also gaining very rapidly in favor in this country, especially for Public Halls, Banks, Offices &c. As compared to the ordinary floor oil cloth, it is Warm, Comfortable, Elastic, and More Durable.

Linoleum Floor Cloth is manufactured from oxydized linseed oil, mixed with finely ground cork, and rolled on to a strong canvas, which, being water-proofed, will resist the action of all damp. Give it a trial.

I have also in stock an immense assortment of Moquet, Axminster, Velvet, Brussels, Mexican Sheep Skin, Fibre Carpeting and Rugs together with a very superior collection of Moquet Velvet and Brussels Ottomans and Hassocks in all sizes. Also a splendid line of Stair Rods, Stair Rods, etc.

Remembering that I have not only the largest stock of Carpeting, Oil Cloths, Mats, Rugs, etc, in Western Pennsylvania, but that are guaranteed to be as low as those demanded for like qualities at all the first class establishments in New York, Philadelphia or Boston.

In order to meet the requirements of my trade I have established, in connection with my other business, an wherein I am now prepared to execute orders for Curtains, Lambriquins, Window Cornices, Furniture Slip Sheets and Pillow Cases, as well as the Upholstering of Fine Furniture. I will also keep on hand a full line of Window Shades, Cornices, and Trimmings, and will execute all orders to be faithfully and promptly executed. The work in this department will be executed under the personal supervision of Alexander Reid a first class upholsterer from New York who has had long experience in the business, having served many years with A T Stewart & Co.

I propose to execute all orders in this Department in as good style as similar work can be done in any house in the United States. To this end I have spared no expense or effort to procure first-class workmen, that is, those who desire window Draperies and Shades, furniture Slips, or a piece or an entire set of Fine Furniture, old or new, upholstered, are respectfully invited to give me a trial.

☞ Reasonable charges will follow for all work done in my Upholstery Department.☜

In Upholstery Goods suitable for Window Draperies, in Lace or heavier material, Window Shades, Cornices, Lambriquins and Drapery Tassels, Furniture Slips, Furniture Repps, Damasks, etc, etc, I have an elegant line on exhibition, all marked at popular prices.

Particular attention is called to my elegant stock of Real and Nottingham Laces for Curtains. Also to the French Lace Curtains in sets, a style costing less than the real hand-made article, and more than the Nottingham goods. Really elegant goods at mid-rate cost, which will unquestionably win their introduction to consumers everywhere. Look at them!

I AM NOW OFFERING IN MY

a superb assortment of Table Linens, Napkins, Tray Cloths, Doylies and Towels, of French, Irish, and Scotch manufacture, embracing a world of new and unique patterns.

I am also exhibiting in this Department several sets of exceedingly fine Table Cloths with Napkins to match. In fact the finest goods of the description ever brought to this section of the country. In short, an elegant assortment of the kind ever imported, except for special orders. Those who admire fine Table Linen should call and examine these sets.

I have also in stock in this department a great line of English and French Toilet Quilts in all qualities, from $1 25 to $20 00 each. Also a full line of American goods. Look at the

☞ Honey Comb Quilts that I am now offering at $1 25 each.☜

In goods suitable for Toweling, I have a complete assortment of Russian, Scotch and American manufacture, bleached and unbleached or brown in qualities ranging from 6c to 50c per yard.

Also a great line of Turkey Red Table Damasks and Napkins, satin Finished Linen Table Covers in various colors, Embossed, Embroidered and Fringed, Cloth and Felt, Sound, Table and Piano Covers, that process to suit the purse of the million.

I am now offering great bargains in Linen and Cotton Sheetings and Pillow-case Linens and Cotton, a special feature with the popular makes. In bleachings I have all widths, from seven to sixteen quarters wide. In Pillow-case Cottons my assortment comprises those 42, 45, 46 and 54 inches wide. Bargains will be given when you get ready to purchase.

My resident New York buyer exercises great care in the selection of the goods designed for this Department, in order to secure those brands which will afford the greatest amount of service to the consumer.

IN MY
Domestic Goods Department,

I am offering a great assortment of new and handsome Prints of French, English and American manufacture, among which will be found a splendid line of the new Dolly Varden styles. Also an extensive line of French and English Shirtings in new and desirable patterns. Together with an immense stock of Bleached and Brown Sheetings, Denims, Tickings, Checked and Striped Shirtings, Ginghams, etc, all of which I am now retailing at less rates than ever before, taking the present high price of the raw material into consideration.

Citizens of the Oil Region! I have gone into this business with the intention of meeting the wants of the people throughout the section of the country here at home, and only ask from one and all an opportunity of exhibiting my stock when ever anything is desired in the Dry Goods or Carpet line, and I feel satisfied that I can make it apparent to all that their interests can be served in making their purchases of me. In other words why send your orders to distant cities for execution, when you can buy the same styles and qualities here at home, at the same or less rates?

Titusville Morning Herald

were moving about the streets did not observe it. The shocks before daylight caused some persons to arise and make preparations for flight, while others passed a very uneasy night, being afraid that a shock would presently come which would bring their houses tumbling upon their ears. The quakes seem to have been felt pretty generally throughout this part of the State. In Carson City, it is said, four heavy and distinct shocks were felt, each being separated from the other by a space of time filled in with continued trembling, which spread more terror among the sleepy inhabitants than the shocks which stopped clocks and upset bottles and crockery. The vibrations in this city appeared to be from south west to north east, and were accompanied with a roaring or rushing sound. At Parke & Bowie's mill in Six Mile Canon, the first shock is said to have been preceded by a sudden and heavy blast of wind. Some of the men working in the mines say that the sensations they experienced down in the bowels of the earth—down where the quakes were rushing along—were very disagreeable. They say they would infinitely prefer being on the surface during earthquaky times. A gentleman who was sleeping on an easy spring bed in the second story of a light frame building, sends us an account of his sensations, the substance of which we give below—we think he is a little severe on earthquakes, and must have experienced some of his sho ks while sound asleep. He was lying on his left side when the first heavy shock turned him on a pivotal point on his left hip and took and woke him. In this position he could distinctly feel the slightest tremulous motion of the earth. For many minutes, by a succession of pulsations, the earth seemed to rise from west to east, dropping back to its position with a thud about once a second—reminding him of the nervous tremulousness of the human chest and the heavy beat that accompanies violent physical exertion. Turning upon his right side, the motion was just telling into a deep sleep when the last heavy shock came and whirled him over upon his back with great violence. Then all was still, and finally our friend dropped off to sleep, dreaming of shipwrecks and volcanoes. T. C. Plunkett, County Clerk of Nevada county, California, telegraphs us that in Nevada City two slight shocks were felt yesterday morning—one about two and the other about six o'clock. The vibrations were from the north to the south. The shocks in that have been felt very generally in the State and Territory, and in some places seem to have been stronger than here.
